

COUNCIL ON LIBRARY AND INFORMATION RESOURCES

Postdoctoral Fellowship Program in Scholarly Information Resources for Humanists

The Council on Library and Information Resources announces the 2008 Postdoctoral Fellowship Program in Scholarly Information Resources for Humanists. The fellowship provides scholars in the humanities a unique opportunity to develop expertise in new forms of scholarly research and the information resources that support them, both traditional and digital, that are challenging research institutions in the changing academic landscape. Fellows must have earned their Ph.D.s in the humanities within the past five years (or will earn them before starting the program) and believe there are opportunities to develop meaningful linkages between disciplinary scholarship, libraries, and archives. All fields in the humanities will be considered; Fellows must be in residence at a sponsoring institution for the duration of the fellowship. Former fellows have high placement rates as researchers and professionals in academic libraries and as members of teaching faculties. For more information about the CLIR Fellowship and application procedures, please visit <http://www.clir.org/fellowships/postdoc/postdoc.html>.